DAY 5 FAILAKA ISLAND

Today we will take a ferry approximately 20 kilometres (12 miles) to the island of Failaka, a remote island in the northern Persian Gulf with a history stretching back more than 4,000 years. Its strategic location near the confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers made it important throughout history. In more recent times, the island played a role during the Iraqi invasion of 1990, and evidence of that brief conflict remains visible today in the form of scattered tanks and armoured vehicles.

Our tour will explore Failaka's rich layers of history, including archaeological ruins from the Dilmun civilization and the Greek period, some of which are still under excavation. We will visit the Heritage Village, a reconstructed settlement showcasing life in Kuwait before oil, as well as the Tank Graveyard and the National Bank of Kuwait building that was never opened due to the invasion. Additional highlights include a camel farm, a Hellenistic fortress dating to the 3rd century BCE, an almost complete Bronze Age temple, and a number of war-stricken and abandoned structures across the island.

DAY 6 FLY TO MANAMA, BAHRAIN

We will transfer to the airport to board our flight to Bahrain. Upon arrival, we'll check in to our hotel and enjoy lunch before setting out on our local excursions. Deserts are often perceived as barren and uneventful landscapes, where the passage of time is marked only by shifting sands. Bahrain's desert, however, tells a very different story. Blending the allure of Arabian Nights with rich historical sites and a touch of adventure, the Sakhir desert is one of the most engaging desert landscapes you'll experience. Our local guide will lead the way, sharing routes and stories that reveal the area's depth and intrigue.

We begin with a visit to the Royal Camel Farm, followed by a stop at Bahrain's first oil well. Later, we'll explore Riffa Fort and the A'Ali Burial Mounds, a UNESCO World Heritage site comprising more than 100,000 burial mounds dating back over 4,000 years to the Dilmun era. Our day concludes with a visit to the Tree of Life, a 400-year-old tree standing alone in the desert without any visible source of water. Illuminated at night, its survival feels all the more mysterious.

Overnight in Manama, Bahrain.

DAY 7 BAHRAIN SIGHTSEEING

Today will be spent further exploring this small island state, beginning with a visit to the Bahrain National Museum. Here we will trace the archaeological development of the region through sculpture and ceramics, reconstructed burial mounds, Arabic calligraphy, and illuminated Korans, all of which present the different periods of Bahrain's history.

We will then visit Bahrain Fort, where the earliest dwellings are believed to date back to around 2800 BC. Over time, the site was overlaid by a series of fortified settlements, the last of which was built in the early 16th century to defend Portugal's newly acquired islands. For this reason, it is also known locally as the Portuguese Fort.

Our exploration continues with a visit to the Al Fateh Grand Mosque, Bahrain's largest mosque and an outstanding example of Islamic architecture. On the island of Muharraq, we will visit Sheikh Isa House in the old town, once home to Sheikh Isa bin Ali Al Khalifa, the great-grandfather of the Amir. The house is a fine example of traditional 19th-century local architecture, featuring wall carvings, latticework, and a distinctive wind tower. Built 5–6 metres (16–20 feet) above the house and open on all four sides, this early form of air conditioning channels cooling breezes into the living spaces while allowing hot air to escape. Lunch will be enjoyed at a local restaurant.

No visit to Bahrain would be complete without time in the Old Souq, a lively maze of colors, sounds, and aromas. Located in the heart of the old town near the Bab al-Bahrain gateway, the souq retains its traditional street layout and division of trades. Here, everything is for sale—from textiles and gold jewelry to spices and local produce.

DAY 27 RIYADH SITES; FAREWELL DINNER

This morning, after breakfast, we visit Riyadh's Souq Al-Zal, a shopping trip through time. The market dates back to 1901, to the beginnings of modern Saudi Arabia, and sits just a stone's throw from the Masmak Fortress; the site where, in 1902, a young Ibn Saud and a small band of his trusted soldiers crept up after dawn prayers, captured the governor, and declared the return of the Al Saud family. A treasure trove of traditional Eastern artifacts, the souq is one of Riyadh's major tourist attractions. The word "zal" means "carpet" or "floor rug," referencing the patterned textiles so central to Middle Eastern imagery.

Next, we visit the National Museum of Saudi Arabia, a centerpiece of the King Abdulaziz Historical Center. This impressive museum showcases the history of Saudi Arabia, the royal family, and the formation of the kingdom. Highlights include examples of Arabian and Islamic art and architecture, a prehistoric elephant skeleton, a huge meteor from the Empty Quarter, rock graffiti from the Hejaz region dating back to the pre-Islamic era, a copy of the Rosetta Stone, and a replica of the Mada'in Saleh rock-cut tombs.

After exploring the museum, we enjoy a walk through the outdoor gardens of the National Museum Park. We then continue to the Hall of King Abdulaziz, which houses an extensive collection of historic cars once owned by the King. Our final stop today is Murabba Palace, one of the most important palaces built by King Abdulaziz to accommodate his family. Constructed in the traditional Najdi style using only local materials, it offers a fascinating glimpse into Saudi architectural heritage.

Tonight, we gather for a farewell dinner and reminisce about our journey through Qatar, Kuwait, Bahrain, and Saudi Arabia.
